

Stewarding Your Children

Parents, not the church or Christian school, have the primary responsibility to teach God's Word to their children and train them. Training is the consistent, diligent application of God's Word to a child's desires, thoughts, speech, attitudes, and behaviors. Training involves correction, discipline and a repetition of what has been taught from God's Word. (See also Behavior Training Using God's Word)

The above is an excerpt from "The Way They Should Go" Bible study which will be available November 1, 2013